

Dr. Reddick's love for her students and for the Black community at SDSU runs deep and wide. It is important for the community to know that this mantra will continue as we welcome our incoming students and continue to support our returning students through our first year and second year academic success programs (BSSK, HGS, and HGS 2.0), programming, and community outreach. I am humbled by the strength and resilience of this community. I have deep respect and admiration for the history of the BRC and what it took to make the center a strong presence on SDSU's campus. The BRC will always be a center that is committed and devoted to the success and well-being of Black students.
